ELECTION FORECASTS

Democrats and Republicans Seem Sanguine of Winning.

CLAIMING NEW YORK

Odell Emphatically Declares That He Will Be His Own Successor and Coler Says the Democrats Will Be the Winners.

New York, Nov. 3.—Leaders, both of Democratic and Republican parties, express confidence in victory in the Empire state. Predictions vary from 10,000 to 50,000 on each side, though estimates the two state chairmen. Frank Campbell, for Democrats, and Col. Dunn, for the Republicans, are almost the same, the former claiming 35,000 for Coler and the later 37,000 for Odell. Both these men assert their predictions are based on a thorough examination of the situation throughout state and very conservative. Word came from Governor Odell at Newburgh, where he will remain to vote and receive returns, that he estimates his majority at 40,000 and Mr. Coler said that he expects to win by 60,000. Mr. Coler told his managers that Chairman Campbell's figures were far too modest. For Greater New York, Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, reiterated his belief that Coler will have 112,000 plurality. Democratic leaders expect 30,000 of this to be furnished by Kings county, 1000 by Richmond, 3,000, by Queens and 78,000 by New York county. Republicans estimates cut Democratic plurality in Kings to 14,000 in Queens to 2500 and Manhattan and Bronx to 15,000, deducing Democratic plurality below the Bronx 62,000 to 65,000.

OUTCOME IN OHIO.

On the Result Mayor Johnson of Cleveland Is Much Interested. Cincinnati, Nov. 3.—Although the Ohio election is for minor state officials only and congressmen, the result is anxiously awaited on account of its bearing on the future of Senator Hanna and Mayor Johnson of Cleveland. Johnson controlled the Democratic state convention and Hanna the Republican campaign. Hanna holds the solid Republican support, while Johnson is opposed by leading Democrats. With confidence on one side and indifference on the other, and personal preferences paramount on both sides, a light vote is predicted, with odds in favor of the Republicans. The legislature elected next November is to choose Hanna's successor. If the Democrats win or materially reduce the Republican plurality of 4,467 of this time last year, it is conceded Johnson will become a formidable candidate for president in 1904 as well as for Hanna's place. In such event the campaign in Ohio next year will be without precedent, and on that contingency all interest in the contest centers.

REDUCED MAJORITY.

It Is Said by Republican Leaders They Will Carry Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—Indications point to the election of Judge Penneybacker, Republican candidate for governor, by a reduced majority. Robert E. Pattison, Democratic candidate, has twice carried the state for governor, but each time there was a strong defection in the Republican ranks. Pattison will probably carry the state outside this city, but the heavy Republican vote in Philadelphia will likely overcome this Democratic vote. There will be 32 congressmen elected. Of this number the Republican leaders claim 28, while the Democrats concede them only 24. There has been a warm fight on legislative candidates, but it is not likely that the Republicans will lose many districts. Senator Penrose claims the election of many more than 129 assemblymen and senators, necessary to choose him on joint ballot.

Missouri.

St. Louis, Nov. 3.—The polls are opened in every precinct and township in Missouri for the general election of congressmen, members of the legislature, three judges of the supreme court, state superintendent of schools, two railroad and warehouse commissioners, as well as county officers. Managers of both leading parties gave out interviews stating positions and predicting the success of each. The selection of a successor to United States Senator Vest by the coming legislature lends additional interest to the election of that body, complexion of which seems to be in doubt.

Both Sides Sanguine.

Indianapolis, Nov. 3.—James P. Goodrich, chairman of the Republican state committee, declares Indiana Republicans will elect the state ticket by 20,000 plurality, nine and possibly ten of the thirteen members of congress and control the legislature. Wm.

H. O'Brien, Democratic state chairman, says every indication points to a Democratic victory. He says the Democrats will have the legislature and choose the successor of United States Senator Fairbanks. His party, the senator says, will increase its congressional delegation. Both parties are worried about apathy.

New Jersey.

Trenton, Nov. 3.—New Jersey's congressional delegation—eight Republicans and three Democrats—will probably remain unchanged.

Offices Michigan Fills.

Detroit, Nov. 3.—Voters of Michigan elect state officers and a new legislature, which will elect a successor to the late Senator James McMillan, 12 congressmen and county officers throughout the state. They also pass on a constitutional amendment providing for intermediate sentences of convicted criminals. Several cities, including Detroit, elect city officers. The Republicans are confident of the success of their entire state, legislative and congressional tickets, while the Democrats are predicting the election of their candidate for governor, L. T. Durand, and at least three congressmen.

In Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Illinois elects a state treasurer, other minor state officers and congressmen. Both parties have made a very active campaign, but the Democrats devoted particular attention to close congressional districts. Under the new apportionment Illinois will have 25 congressmen. The Republicans claim they will elect at least 16, if not 18, while the Democrats believe they are sure of 12, if not more. Both parties claim they will have a majority for their state ticket.

Perfunctory Affair.

Atlanta, Nov. 3.—The election in Georgia is merely a perfunctory affair as there is no considerable opposition to the Democratic congressional candidates.

California.

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—California is claimed by both Republicans and Democrats.

Little Interest in Tennessee.

Nashville, Nov. 3.—Little interest is manifested in Tennessee in the election

State Officers and Congressmen.

Montgomery, Nov. 3.—Alabama elects state officers and congressmen.

NEW FAST MAIL.

The Southern Pacific's Flyer Made the Run in Thirty-Three Hours.

New Orleans, Nov. 3.—The Southern railway's new mail flyer from New York to New Orleans which left New York Sunday morning at 2:30 a. m., and due here at 11:50 came into the city fifteen minutes ahead of time. The distance is 1374 miles, covered in 33 hours and five minutes, and New York morning papers of Sunday were on sale here. In addition to serving the rest of the south this new mail service will enable Texas get eastern mail 24 hours earlier after Nov. 15, when the new daily schedule of the Southern Pacific's Sunset limited goes into effect. Two trains will make close connections. The train brought 20,000 pounds of mail and nine passengers.

Wants to Die at Home.

New York, Nov. 3.—Bishop Thompson of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Mississippi, who has been undergoing treatment in this city for cancer of the throat since August, has been under the care of the foremost specialists of the east. The malady is pronounced incurable, and he expressed the wish to await the end, which is said to be not more than a month or two distant, at his home in Jackson. Bishop Thompson was born in Ireland in 1830 and was a classmate of former President Cleveland in the Camden, N. J., high school. He was rector of Christ church, this city, in 1871.

Found Dead in a Room.

New York, Nov. 3.—After years of hard work and saving, Antonio Gazirone and Giuseppe J. Luigo of Newburg, N. Y., decided to return to their homes in Italy. Between them they had $790, and on this they expected to live comfortably the remainder of their lives.

They came to this city and engaged a room in an Italian lodging house. They retired and apparently blew out the gas. Both were dead when other lodgers broke in the door.

Will Have Little Effect.

New York, Nov. 3.—Local coffee importers express the belief that the recent volcanic outburst in Guatemala, which wrought havoc on the coffee plantations, will have little effect on the general markets. Last year the yield was 600,000 bags, but in view of the fact that the visible supply of coffee is about 13,000,000 bags, the loss of even the whole production would not be considered serious.

Dropped Dead in the Street.

Beaumont, Tex., Nov. 3.—A. E. Gilbert of Pelican, Tex., died at the hospital under mysterious circumstances. Dropped on street Sunday morning, and died twenty minutes after taken to the hospital.

THE DAILY EAGLE.

Entered at the postoffice as second Class mail matter.

BY CONNELLY & CARNES.

Per Week, 15c. - Per Month, 40c.

It is the duty of every man to vote.

A state convention of school trustees will be held in Austin the last week in December.

Attorney General Bell has decided that medicines which may be used as intoxicating beverages are subject to the liquor tax, and the state revenue agent has instructed that said tax be collected.

There is contention between the United States and Cuba as to the ownership of the little Isle of Pines, 35 miles south of Cuba, which had about 3000 inhabitants at the close of the Spanish-American war. Cuba has taken possession of it, and the Americans with whom the island has filled up recently, want the United States to assume control.

Three steers roped and tied down within less than three minutes, one of the animals being tied in less than thirty seconds is the remarkable record made by Clay McGonigle at the San Antonio fair just closed. It seems incredible, especially when we consider that the ropers were not allowed to make their loops until the steers started. McGonigle easily holds the world's record.—Orange Tribune.

The Democrat suggests that some owner of Brazos bottom land experiment in the growth of rice. Rusk county upland produced 60 bushels per acre. Rice is grown successfully in the Brazos bottom near the mouth. It is one of the best money crops known. There is land in the Brazos bottom that can be irrigated with little expense and it will cost comparatively little to try rice culture. If it grows well, and we believe it will, under proper cultivation it would put money into the hand of the owner of the land and Mr. Boll Weevil would be without a job so far as the rice farmer is concerned.—Marlin Democrat.

There is a prevalent but very erroneous opinion that running water cannot be contaminated, that it purifies itself within a given distance from the source of pollution. When the country was new and sparsely settled the water of running streams was comparatively pure. It is different now, when every rivulet is visited by hundreds of animals daily for every mile of its length, and the washings from farm houses, stock barns, hog pens and cess pools find their way to the nearest rivulet or creek during every rain. From streams thus polluted many families secure their drinking and cooking water and the inevitable result is diagnosed by the family physician as "malaria"—the convenient scape goat for sanitary sins, and the cloak for ignorance. The carelessness of some people in this regard amounts to recklessness.—Farm and Ranch.

The eleventh annual report of the Texas railroad commission has just been prepared for the year ending June 30, 1902. It shows 251 people killed and 3827 injured by accidents during the year. These figures may seem large, but when it is remembered that there are about eleven thousand miles of railway track in Texas, that 40,002 officers and men are employed by the railroads, and that more than ten millions of passengers have been handled by the roads, the accident list becomes less alarming.

In response to an inquiry from Calvert, sent out as a result of the shortness of the corn crop in Central Texas, it is learned the Sunset Central and the International and Great Northern lines will, for the relief of farmers having to buy corn, make a low rate on corn shipped in to properly accredited committees for the use of the farmers in need of it.

DEED OF A DYNAMITER

Residence at Chicago Is Blown up by a Vile Fiend.

TWO PERSONS KILLED

The Body of a Child Two Years Old Torn to Pieces, the House Burned and an Adjoining One Is Also Destroyed.

Chicago Nov. 3.—A dynamite bomb, the weapon of a deranged assassin, blew up the home of Jos. Kordeck in Chicago Heights Sunday, killing two members of the family outright and injuring several others. The house was set on fire and burned while that of a neighbor caught fire and was also destroyed. The dead: Jos. Kordeck, arms and legs blown off; Lucy Kordeck, aged 2 years, body blown to pieces.

The injured: Mrs. Lucy Kordeck, flesh blown off, right side injured internally; may die.

Seven children who escaped were injured, but not seriously.

The explosion occurred while the family was asleep. The father and mother, with the daughter, Lucy, occupied a room in the front of the cottage. On the other side were rooms occupied by the rest of the family. The bomb was placed under the room occupied by the parents and the impact of the explosion tore a hole in the floor, blew the bed to pieces, dismembered Kordeck and scattered into fragments the body of Lucy, who was sleeping with her parents. Pieces of flesh the size of a man's hand were the largest remnants of the child's body that could be found. The force of the explosion was directly upward, and tore a piece of flesh from Mrs. Kordeck's side and blew her through a window. The noise aroused the rest of the family and they had hardly time to escape from the flames, which soon destroyed the cottage. Kordeck's body, torn to shreds was found in the debris after the fire.

Chas. Smith, a former boarder at the Kordeck house who was paying attention to one of Kordeck's daughters, has been arrested, charged with the crime. The Kordeck girl was to have been married to another man this week. Smith declares he is innocent, but neighbors declare that he made threats to them that if the girl refused to be his wife he would blow up the entire family with dynamite. Smith was absent from his room at the time of the explosion. His room mate, Thos. Kobolinski, claims that Smith returned to his room greatly excited shortly after the explosion.

INDIAN ROBBED.

A Flathead Is Relieved of Twenty-Two Thousand Dollars.

Missoula, Mont., Nov. 3.—A wealthy Flathead Indian, named Matchell, has been robbed of $22,000 in cash, the money consisting of $100 bills and $20 gold pieces.

Matchell visited the town of Plains, and during his absence at night a man dressed as a squaw visited his home on Camas Prairie and engaged in conversation with Matchell's squaw. Mrs. Matchell noticed that the visitor was not an Indian squaw, but a white man, and her suspicions were aroused when she saw two men run from an out building where the wealth had been stored, carrying something with them.

The robbers jumped on their horses, which were nearby, the man that had been talking to the squaw joined them, and the three hurried away, leaving no clue.

Theatrical Treasures.

New York, Nov. 3.—At the annual business meeting of the Theatrical Treasures' Club of America, just held here the following officers were elected: J. Max Hirsch, president; vice president, James H. J. Scullion; treasurer, Earl S. King; financial secretary, Edward Fletcher; recording secretary, A. J. Faber; governors, Arthur Sheldon, Gilbert Gordon and David Mayer.

Three Men Killed.

Whatcom, Wash., Nov. 3.—Three men have been killed while engaged in clearing a tunnel where a cave in had occurred on the Chukanut Creek cut-off division of the Northern Pacific. No names could be given by the messenger who came here for the coroner.

NEW WHOLESALE HOUSE.

Carson, Sewall & Co. Ready to Begin Business With Mr. R. M. Gordon, Manager.

Bryan has long been in need of a first-class grocery house, it being generally conceded that few of the lesser cities of the state are more favorably located for building up a fine wholesale trade, and it is with pleasure the Eagle announces that the time has arrived for this need to be supplied by one of the best known and most enterprising firms in the south.

Carson, Sewall & Co., of Houston, have rented the Howell new building, a handsome three-story structure of modern design and finish, and will open up a general line of wholesale groceries as soon as the goods can be received and placed in the house. The stock will be the same as that carried by the main house in Houston, and everything will be handled in carload lots. Mr. R. M. Gordon of this city has been appointed manager of the Bryan house and will have entire charge of the firm's business at this point. Mr. Gordon's business qualifications are such that a better selection could not have been made for the important place. He is an expert book-keeper and accountant and has been connected with one of Bryan's leading firms, the grocery house of W. E. Saunders for more than ten years. His general knowledge of the business and acquaintance with the trade are such that he will be able to make a success of the business from the first.

The Bryan house will supply the trade in Central Texas north, east and west of Bryan, and south as far as will not infringe on the territory now covered by another house. Mr. C. W. Carr, the well-known and popular salesman of Carson, Sewall & Co., will continue to represent the firm in this territory.

FIENDISH FATHER.

Kenneth Killed His Son to Death and Probably Killed Daughter.
Inez, Ky., Nov. 3.—Pleasant Spalding, held for killing his 4-year-old son and his 15-year-old daughter is threatened with lynching. Spalding's family consisted of wife, three daughters and a son. With his daughters and boy, the father was herding sheep last Friday. The boy was unable to keep up with the others. The father placed him on a stone beside a spring, telling him to wait until his return. The boy becoming tired of sitting still, began to peel loose bark off a tree that overhung the spring. Presently the father returning and noticing the bark on the ground, asked the boy who had done it. The boy replied that he had. "I would rather have you dead than raise you to destroy everything on the farm" is the reply the father is said to have made and then, it is charged, he picked up a stone and struck the boy on the head, knocking him down. Then, it is alleged, he kicked the prostrate boy in the head until he had killed him, and turning to his daughters threatened them with a like fate if they ever told what had occurred. Afterward he went home and said the boy, while chasing sheep had run against a tree and killed himself. Becoming alarmed, he took his eldest daughter and went to the mountain. His wife had neighbors bury the boy. Spalding was captured, but his daughter is missing.

IN FRONTIER STYLE.

A Boy in a Brooklyn Hospital Says He Is a Victim of a Holdup.
New York, Nov. 3.—A story has been told by Eugene Stegemann, 10 years old, who is in the Kings County hospital in Brooklyn, in a serious condition. He was the victim of a hold-up in true frontier style in a clump of woods near his home.

Young Stegemann is the son of a wealthy electrical manufacturer. He was gathering mineral specimens in the woods at the rear of his home, according to his story, when he was seized by two boys carrying small rifles. Pointing their guns at him, Stegemann says, the boys threatened to "blow his head off" if he did not leave the neighborhood.

Before he could utter a word or get out of the way there were two reports. A bullet whizzed by Stegemann's cheek and a second bullet lodged in his left shoulder. The boy fell to the ground with a groan and the two boys responsible for the injury fled.

Stegemann was found by a passer by and carried home, where it was found a bullet had penetrated his left lung and that he was in a serious condition. The police were notified and arrested two boys, who declare they were shooting at a target.

A Hot Fight At Corinth

[Copyright, 1902, by G. L. Kilmer.]

At Corinth, Miss., Oct. 3 and 4, 1862, General Earl Van Dorn attempted to wrest the great prize of the valley from the grasp of Grant. The fall of Corinth into the hands of the Confederates would mean that Grant's victories at Fort Henry, Donelson and Shiloh early in the year had been in vain. Corinth at the time was the advance post of the Federals in the southwest. Grant was at Jackson, Tenn., and maintained a force of 12,000 at Bolivar, with another at Memphis under Sherman numbering 7,000. The garrison at Corinth mustered 23,000 and was commanded by Rosecrans. Van Dorn, having united his own army with that of Sterling Price after the repulse of Price at Iuka Sept. 20, had over 40,000 troops in the field, and he boldly considered striking Memphis, Bolivar or Corinth.

Grant was in doubt whether Van Dorn would appear. A large Confederate army was across the border in Kentucky, and every Federal soldier that battle which Van Dorn sprung at daylight Oct. 4. After a short duel of artillery the Confederates ceased fighting. The division which had the most important part in heading the charge did not move, but about 8 o'clock the charging line marched out from the cover of the woods in splendid style. Rosecrans' troops, lying down in front of the batteries, could see the southern flags and the glint of the sun upon the advancing bayonets. The first Federal line attacked was unfortunately placed, and the troops gave way. Rushing pell-mell, the Confederates were caught by the fire of Rosecrans' batteries. The force of the charge was broken by the shells, but some of the boldest Confederates dashed on into the Federal reserve artillery.

The bloodiest fighting of the day was at Battery Robinett, a little work holding three guns, with a ditch in front five feet deep. This battery was assaulted again and again until the dead Confederates lay piled in ranks before it. When the head of the column at could be spared from the defense of the Memphis and Corinth region was needed to defend the line on the Ohio. Grant and his generals must therefore fight it out with Van Dorn alone.

Both Van Dorn and Price were vehement, not to say rash, leaders in battle. They planned to surprise Rosecrans at Corinth with one column and, engaging him in his works, bring up a fresh column to clinch the victory. But Rosecrans was bold as well. When he heard that the enemy was after Corinth, he marched his troops out to give battle in front of the works.

Having made a long march, the Confederates were worn out and not in condition for battle. Besides, they hadn't formed lines when they found the enemy across their path. Rosecrans' center division under General Davies was first attacked by three Confederate divisions. Van Dorn's line was so long that it overlapped Davies, and his troops fought heroically, but had to give ground step by step. Every one of his brigade commanders fell early in the fight. General Hackleman was mortally wounded while rallying the troops. General Oglesby of Illinois was shot down at the same time. Some soldiers stooped to carry Oglesby from the field, but he cried out: "Never mind me! Look yonder!" The Confederates had broken the line and were rushing on to Corinth. Colonel Baldwin, leader of the Third brigade, also fell.

Countless deeds of heroism were enacted on Davies' line, for it was in a forlorn hope to keep the head of the Confederate column at arm's length until Rosecrans could draw his line back to the works. Lieutenant Maxwell of Hackleman's brigade rushed forward into the enemy's ranks and recaptured a regimental standard that had just been lost. In falling back from an old redan which had been used at the beginning of the fight the Fifty-second Illinois left Private Murray alone behind the rampart. "It is orders to hold the fort to the last," he exclaimed. A Confederate captain demanded Murray's surrender and when it was refused shot him with a revolver. Murray shot the captain dead and also a private who attacked him.

Both army leaders sighed for "one hour more of daylight" when night put an end to the battle on Oct. 3. In spite of the heroic fighting in the center of Rosecrans' line Van Dorn had carried his army to within 600 yards of Corinth. But in fighting his way up Van Dorn had merely driven a wedge between the Federal right and left. Rosecrans' right division under General Hamilton was ready when the sun went down to fall upon the Confederate rear. After dark Rosecrans drew all his troops back inside the line of fortifications and stood ready for the last reached the ditch. Colonel Rogers, leading the Second Texas, dismounted and, taking his flag from the hands of a dead color bearer, the fifth to fall in the desperate charge, planted it upon the bank and stood by rallying his men until he was pierced by eleven bullets.

Colonel Rogers fell in front of the Eleventh Missouri infantry. That regiment lay, or knelt, rather, out of sight of the enemy in rear of the battery. The moment the force of the southern charge was broken the Missourians arose with wild cheers and charged bayonets. But the dead in front of Battery Robinett were not all Confederates. At the beginning of the fight the Sixty-third Ohio lay about forty rods in advance of the Missouri regiment. A cloud of sharpshooters preceded the Confederate column and took the Ohioans for their principal target. So deadly was this fire that when the charging column headed by Colonel Rogers reached the little fort the Ohio regiment had entirely disappeared. When the Ohioans arose to meet the Confederate onslaught, there were 13 officers and 275 men in the line. More than half of the men and nine officers were killed or wounded, but the remnant, with the Eleventh Missouri, rushed after the Confederates with their bayonets at the end of the last desperate charge.

One of the Ohio boys made the most desperate flag capture of the day. In the last charge a gallant Texan marched in front of the column straight for the fort. He was shot, and Private Orin B. Gould of Company G sprang forward to seize the flag. A Confederate captain called out to his followers, "Save your colors." Gould was hit in the breast with a revolver shot, but brought off the trophy in triumph.

The fight at the works of Corinth did not last over an hour. The Federal Battery Powell was captured by a brigade of Price's Missourians, but before help could come up to hold it the assailants had been routed. By noon the Confederates were in full retreat. Van Dorn drew his army south into Mississippi, and it took no further part in the campaign around Corinth or the game General Bragg was playing in the invasion of Kentucky.

ON CEDAR MOUNTAIN

President Roosevelt and Party Visit a Noted Battlefield.

FIGHT IS DESCRIBED

Scene of One of the Most Sanguinary Conflicts of the War Between the States Viewed on the Sabbath Day by the Party.

Brandy Station, Va., Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt passed several hours Sunday afternoon on the battlefield of Cedar Mountain. Accompanied by Secretary Root, Secretary Cortelyou and Dr. Rixey, the president drove to the site of the sanguinary struggle and there received from an eye witness and participant an account of the fight. It was the most interesting event thus far of his present trip. The day was perfect and the drive to the battlefield was as pleasurable as could be desired.

The president drove to the battlefield over the road which years ago was the stage route between New York and New Orleans. On arrival on the field, which is dotted here and there by monuments marking the positions of the troops during the fight, the contest was explained to the president by Judge Grimsley, who now is a member of the bench of this judicial circuit. The judge was a captain in the Sixth Virginia cavalry and was a participant in the fight. The president, a cavalryman himself, was interested particularly in the account of the famous First Cavalry charge, made during the Battle of Cedar Mountain. The Union and Confederate cavalry met in a depression not far from Cedar Mountain. While the battle did not last long and was brought on quite unexpectedly, it was frightfully sanguinary, the losses on both sides being about 3200.

In the very heart of the battle field President Roosevelt held an informal reception. Subsequently he was given a shell which had been dug up on the battlefield, as a memento of his visit.

Left for Hazelton.

Seranton, Pa., Nov. 3.—The strike commissioners left for Hazelton Saturday night to spend four days in further acquainting themselves with the physical features of mining. They had not decided up to the time of leaving how they would divide their time while in the middle and lower districts. It was definitely decided that not more than four days will be devoted to the trip.

Assistant Recorder Neill was left behind to receive the miners' statement from President Mitchell. On Thursday it is expected the operators' counter-statement will be handed in.
